COURTEOUS READER,

WE GREET YOU WELL.

Herewith you have the order of time during the year of Grace one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, and together with the dates of the days, and revolutions of that light which God hath set in the skies, will be also found correctly given the service of God's holy Church, and a passing memorial of some of the saints who have borne the labours which we are now supporting. What better plan can be devised to note the changes of the earth and the chequered moments of man, than to connect them with eternal good things, and the lasting glories of Christ's blessed friends! O, may the hour soon come, when every one of us may rise from sleep with the thought uppermost in our minds of the divine service appointed by the Church to be observed during each day, and when every morning every Christian may be able and willing to assist at the holy mysteries, and then go to his allotted task, full of the remembrances of our Lord's mercies, or his canonised servants' virtues set apart for that day's special meditation. Why should we with our glorious prospects wake at morn, with as much sluggishness and baseness as brute beasts? Hath not God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, according to his great mercy, regenerated us unto a lively hope, unto an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, and that cannot fade, reserved in heaven for us? (1 Pet. i. 5.) And in the meanwhile shall we mind earthly things only, passing from youth to age in gross passions and cares, and then growing old and rotting in cheerless misery? No; sursum corda, heavenwards, heavenwards let us turn all our best aims. We have been living too much, it is to be feared, as if this poor world were all, and as if we were human creatures only, and not Christians, or as if we had to work only for our bodies and for our families, and for man, and not for heaven and for God.

This must not be. We implore all who possess themselves of a copy of this little book for our Lord's sake, and for their own happiness' sake, present no less than future, to go through this year with the Calendar always in their hands and in their thoughts. Our Master's Life on earth, and the virtues of his saints, have been divided among these next twelve months, and notwithstanding all our bodily toils, it is quite possible, and will be very comfortable and profitable, to begin each day, and to brighten up sometimes in the course of each day with the good thoughts which the Church has borrowed for our use and benefit from her Spouse and her noble children, who are now in heaven. It is not a very hard thing of late for families to procure the volumes containing the lives of the saints, and in a weekly penny paper,* published here for Catholic readers, we purpose, if God spare us, to begin with the new year a short memorial of proper thoughts drawn daily from the Church's service. Thus always uniting things of heaven with things of earth, and eternal things with those of time, our troubles will not be as troublesome as they would be if we refuse to follow this counsel; and thus, too, our joys may be made exceeding joyful and very enduring; and if we maintain communion with the saints who are in glory even now, when separated from them by the burthen of the flesh, what can keep us from their society when we have laid aside this burthen? O blessed conclusion of all momentary trials! May we thus live in this world, may we thus live in the next!

ROME.

THE political annual for the Roman States has just been published. It contains the following facts:—On the 18th of September, the Pope will have accomplished his 79th year. He has occupied the holy See since the 2nd of February, 1831. The sacred college consists of sixty cardinals, six of whom are cardinal-bishops, forty-four cardinal-priests, and ten cardinal-deacons. There are still living two cardinals, created by Pius VII. Oppizani and Riario Sforza, and seven by Leo XII. The fifty-one remaining were appointed by the present pope. Monsignor Taddini, the oldest cardinal, is 85 years of age, and the youngest, Monsignor Schwartzberg, 35. At the close of 1843, Rome possessed a population of 170,701 inhabitants, exclusive of the Israelites.

WHAT MAY BE DONE FOR RELIGION?

THANKS be to God, we live in times when we can serve Him without torment from man, and the only evils which we have now to dread come from our own sloth, or from following of worldly company, or from dread of being ridiculed, and the like. But it was not so with our fathers: many an old man and woman still living can tell you how, to escape being pelted at, or hooted by their neighbours, they started from home before four o'clock on Sunday morning, to have the comfort of hearing Mass in some distant cottage or garret, and how all the family felt happiness exceedingly great, when a priest, gliding unnoticed through the country, held a station at some farm-house, or friends, and they were able, after long preparation at home, to partake altogether of the blessings of holy sacraments. Surely they must have set a higher value on religion than most of us do; and we ought indeed to prize the honour and the happiness of being children of God's One Catholic Church the more, when we calmly call to mind the sufferings which they endured for the love of her, and for this purpose, too, that they might secure for us, their offspring, the blessings she bestows on all who regard her as their Mother.

Reverence, then, thy Mother, Hear the Church, (Luke x. 16,) with the same faithfulness and the same love as did our much suffering fathers formerly. We are not called upon to lose our blood or worldly goods as did they, but we much mistake if we suppose that we can be Catholics, even now-a-days, without some sacrifices, or without being different from the greater part of people about us. They are solicitous (it is the case with almost all great manufacturing countries as is ours) about little more than what they shall eat, or what they shall drink, or wherewith they shall be clothed, (Matt. vi. 33,) but if we would be Catholics in more than the mere name, we have much to mind besides all these things. We must shun spiritual sloth, first of all; that is, we must bestir ourselves in good earnest, in all those matters particularly pertaining to God's glory, and our neighbour's good. We ought to be willing, of course, to die, rather than miss Mass on Sundays, if it be in any way possible for us to be present at it, and we ought to receive the blessed Eucharist according to the advice of our confessors, at least every indulgence. With respect to such plain duties as these, there ought to be no need of recommendation or entreaty, even although there are Catholics, it must be confessed, to be found, (let converts take heed of this,) who stay away from the holy Sacrifice on Sundays, with little or no reason, as, for instance, because they have a headache, or because the whim or wish to go a-pleasuring on that day has come on them,—and there are some Catholics also, unhappily, who seldom come at the stated times to the holy Communion, and who would appear to think that approaching the Table of our Lord once or twice a-year only, nay, sometimes even not once, will suffice. My dear friends, don't let us be more wise than it beseemeth us to be wise, (Rom. xii. 3,) as if we could save our souls with fewer graces and less labour than our wise and good Mother the Church knows to be quite necessary. Our glory ought to be this, the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity of heart and sincerity of God, and not in carnal wisdom, but in the grace of God, we have conversed in this world, (2 Cor. i. 12.)

It would, however, be a poor way to serve God, if we did only as much for him as saved us from His censure. No, no, we must not be content with such servile worship. Do we not love Him? aye, with our whole hearts, and with our whole souls, and with our whole minds? The child looks into his father's and mother's eyes to see what it can imagine will please them; and shall not we pine with exceeding desire to show our love to our Father in heaven, who has indeed loved us first, and who is infinite Love itself! Welcome, then, a million times welcome every occasion that suffers us to prove our sincere, glowing, and practical love of God. The circumstances and characters of all of us are so different, that a general rule can hardly be laid down for the manner of the showing of this love; but what o' that, we want no teachers but our hearts only, when stirred in good earnest, or at most St. Paul will suffice to instruct us on this head, Whether you eat or drink, or whatsoever else you do, do ALL to the glory of God, (1 Cor. x. 31.)

Accordingly, let every one consider well his own particular situation, and what opportunities he really has of offering glory to God. Is it in our power to assist at Mass every morning? or, if we cannot be so happy, can we sometimes assist at it on week days, and do we turn to account that little time which a good will and some management will now and then make?

Again, some pleasant form of devotion—Benediction, the Rosary, or the like—collect the congregation together one night a-week, or more, after work is done, or, perhaps, every night in the week during Lent and Advent; what can there be to prevent us joining in these holy exercises? Or if we live too far from church or chapel to enjoy this pleasure, let us see what may be done at home, the family having met together, or each one left to himself. Ah, how many enjoyments may a simple-minded, fearless Christian receive, who is animated by a love of God, and who, to satisfy the longings of his love, feels a pleasure in reading about God, hearing about Him, speaking about Him, and thinking of Him! Now, devotion to a certain Saint, whose festival is approaching, leads him to the holy communion; now, a friend seeking some favour from God, asks him to join in a novena; a new and interesting good book has been bought or borrowed; a solemn season or feast is at hand, and earnest preparation must be made for it: thus all things work for the good of the elect; and thus the Lord makes his service very pleasant indeed to those who love him.

Our fathers shed their blood, and lost their property, and were degraded in men's eyes, that they might keep the old faith, and hand it down to us. And certainly we ought to labour to give to others the blessing secured for us at such a price. Religious controversy, especially with the noisy, frivolous, and bigoted, is not always to be sought for; but wherever we find any sincerely seeking truth, it is our bounden duty to give them all the information we can, and lend whatever books, or tracts, or journals we possess, which may soften prejudice, and lead to sound doctrine and holiness of life. Many neglect this obligation altogether, and seem to think that priests alone are appointed to mind these matters; whereas every one, according to his means, hath a care of his brother, and for our encouragement we are told, that they who instruct others into justice shall shine as stars for all eternity, (Dan. xii. 3.)

It must be confessed, however, that the best way of instructing our neighbours, is to give them the example of a harmless and holy life; and if we had more practical and earnest Catholics, we should have many more good converts to our faith. Let each of us then look to ourselves, and always apply to ourselves the following passage found in the life of St. Peter of Alcantara: (See Treatise on Prayer.)

"Upon a time, the Count Orapsane, a devout nobleman, came to visit him, and falling into discourse, how much Almighty God was moved with the sins of the world, out of his zeal broke into these speeches: 'O Father! what do you think? what will become of this wicked world? do you think the divine justice can contain itself any longer from revenge? behold how virtue is oppressed and sin triumphant!' To which the man of God modestly answered and said, 'Noble Sir, do not afflict yourself, a remedy will easily be found to cure this disease; the point of the difficulty consisteth only in you and me; men cry out against the wickedness of the world, that all are naught, and none that do good; when if they would but look into their own par- ticular, they should find matter enough of sorrow, and to move themselves to do penance for their own faults; but now, because they blame the whole, they neglect their own particulars, and justify themselves with a sottish presumption. Therefore, noble Sir, let your lordship and I mend one a-piece, and then a great part of the world will be amended; we shall appease the angry Judge, and repair a great part of the ruin of mankind by our good example.' ”

One word more and we have done. In several congregations of late, “Retreats” have been given with extraordinary profit to all who have assisted them. Perhaps these lines are being read by some one who knows not what is meant by a Retreat. It is giving up a few days to scarcely any other thoughts than such as refer to God and our souls; three or four times a-day people assemble in a chapel, and then some devout minister of Christ makes earnest and powerful addresses on their obligations as Christians; they retire for a little time after each discourse, to ponder over what they have heard, keeping as much from worldly thoughts as possible during the days of retreat, and making a thorough examination of their conscience, they conclude this important exercise by receiving the holy Communion with renewed fervour. How many sinners have been converted by these saving retreats! how many cold and careless Christians have been excited to fervour by them! O, if you have any opportunity during this next year to make a retreat, do not neglect it; it will be the very best means of exciting you to fresh love of God, fresh zeal for your neighbour's good, and to live always in that state in which you would wish to die. God grant it, God grant it.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE FOR RELIGION?

(Extract from the Speech of the Right Rev. Bishop Wiseman

It is not more than six years, if so much, since Mr. Pugin received the first great Catholic commission worthy of public attention.—In his footsteps have succeeded others, and the architectural taste of Mr. Pugin has enkindled a light which will not be extinguished with him, but will be handed down unquenched to succeeding generations. (Cheers.) Mr. Pugin has done more than execute great works; he has founded a school; he has formed public taste; and he has brought over persons, who were at first the most opposed to his views, to adopt his principles, and follow his examples. (Cheers.) Since his first commencement, Mr. Pugin has erected thirty-four new churches; I believe he has built as many churches as he has lived years—(loud cheers)—and if he is spared, as we all fervently trust, during a long life, I hope to see England covered with churches, the architecture of which will be after the ancient models. In addition to that number, twenty other new churches have been built by other architects; and thus in six years we have an aggregate of fifty-four new Catholic churches.—(Cheers.) Many of these have been built in places where there were none at all; in others they have been in addition to the one previously in existence; and in some towns they have replaced small and miserable chapels with noble buildings worthy of the Catholic religion. This increase exceeds that of a much greater number of the preceding years. Moreover many of these new churches are on the scale of the largest parochial buildings in the country, and in the greatest and most populous towns in the kingdom—such as London, Liverpool, Birmingham, Manchester, Derby, Nottingham, Newcastle, Macclesfield, Coventry, and other similar places. The church which has this day been opened is one of the largest finished in this country since the Reformation. When St. George's, in London, is completed, it will be the largest Gothic church in the Metropolis, except Westminster Abbey.—(Cheers.) For all this to be done in this short period is very extraordinary, and ought to excite the greatest gratitude to Providence, by whose power the hearts of men were inclined to furnish those means, without which, the talents of Mr. Pugin, bestowed for the noblest ends, could never have been brought into action. (Cheers.) Mr. Pugin has also, in the same period, erected four new religious houses, and others have also been built, making a total of seven religious houses within the last three or four years. This does not include those which have been rebuilt, or those which have been raised by communities removing from one county to another, but totally new communities for which conventual buildings have been erected in strict conformity with the practice of ancient times. (Cheers.)

Few persons have taken any account of the religious communities which had arisen during the last six years; there have been nineteen new communities of nuns established in England, and, with one exception, all are of different orders to those previously existing here.

There have, in that period, been also nine houses of religious men established; making an aggregate of twenty-eight religious houses added to the church during the last six years.

Again, within the last few years, the press at Derby has issued between one and a half and two million volumes of Catholic publications; a number which I am sure will exceed that issued for the last ten or fifteen years from all the catholic presses in the country united. These publications have been disposed of in a manner very different from those of a Bible or a Tract Society, in which great numbers are given away and scattered in every direction by agents or wealthy individuals; whereas the press at Derby is carried on by private industry, and its books are really sold and bought. Catholic books are now bought and read in the most eager manner not only by members of our Church, but by all classes and all religions.

Flower Garden.—Keep up a succession of flowers by bringing Hyacinths, and other bulbs in pots or glasses every fortnight into the stove, or the window of a warm living room. Rhododendrons, Azaleas, Kalmias, Ledums, Lilacs, Roses, Camellias, and hardy Heaths in pots should now be brought into gentle heat to expand their blossoms. Almost all Bulbous rooted plants bear forcing well if the bulbs are large enough, and early flowering ligneous plants that form flower beds before winter, as the Rhodora and Camellia, are to be selected for this purpose.

Kitchen Garden.—Forward Rhubarb and Sea-kale by covering the roots with blanching pots and long litter. Forward Lettuces, Carrots, Potatoes, Asparagus, Radishes, Cauliflowers, Celery; and trench beans in melon frames. Plant out Cucumber and Melon plants into hot-beds previously prepared. Sow Peas and Beans, and plant Potato-Onions, if the weather is open, and if frosty, prune Gooseberry-bushes and Fruit-trees, and fill Ice Houses.

Flower Garden.—Perennial and Biennial herbaceous plants, whether in beds, borders, or single patches, should now be either parted, dressed, transplanted, or otherwise finally regulated and settled where they are to remain for flowering. Sow Hardy Annuals. Fill your Mignonette boxes with Crocuses and Snowdrops, from the open ground, to make the outside of the windows gay. Keep up a succession of forced flowers to adorn the Altar and the Oratory. See instructions for January.

Kitchen Garden.—If the weather proves favourable, plant out Cabbage Plants, Scotch Kail, Brussels' Sprouts, and early Potatoes. Sow Celery in boxes in a hot-bed: Sow Parsley, Beans, Peas, Carrots, Onions, Leeks, Parsnips, Spinage, Kail, Cabbage, Cauliflowers, Lettuces, Radishes, and Turnips. Transplant rooted cuttings of Medicinal and Pot-herbs from the nursery, into richly manured beds. Graft Fruit-trees. Read instructions for January, they apply here also.

by Calceolarias, Heliotropes, and such like delicate plants in hot-beds now, to be afterwards transplanted into the open parterre. Sow Hardy and Half-hardy Annuals in the open ground. Make a slight hot-bed of tender Annuals. Sow lines of Sweet Peas, and plant reserve beds of Clove and other Carnations for their beautiful blossoms in Bouquets for the Altar and the Oratory. This is the prime season to sow Mignonette, and, to insure its welfare, give it a sunny bank and new earth in which no plant hath grown before, and plenty of rotten dung.

Kitchen Garden.—The growing season generally sets in now; lose no time in getting the Kitchen Garden cropped
—see the list of articles for February. Broccolis for autumn and winter should now be sowed—Fruit-trees may still be grafted. Plant early Potatoes and Jerusalem Artichokes.
Plantations of Strawberries, globe Artichokes, and Asparagus, may still be made. Chicory for winter salads should be sowed in rich beds now. Round Spinage should be sowed every fortnight till August.

Flower Garden.—Protect Auricula stages and Thilp beds by awnings from storms and strong sunshine. The stove should be gay now with the flowers of Amaryllises, Hyacinths, Jonquils, Tulips, and the like, to welcome Easter. See list of spring flowers for forcing in January. Plant out China Roses, and other half-hardy plants. Sow Biennials, such as Hollyhocks that are wanted to grow strong for next year's flowering. Camellias to flower fine next winter should have intense heat and moisture for two or three months now till their flower buds are as large as the tip of the finger. No Flower equals the Camellia to adorn the Altar at Easter.

Kitchen Garden.—Sow Lettuces, Chervil, and Turnips, every fortnight till September; and Mustard, Cress, and Corn Salad, every week till October. Marrow-fat, and other large Summer Peas, may be sowed every fortnight till the middle of June; and Broad Beans every fortnight till the end of May. Beet, Cardoons, Salsafy, and Scorzonera, may be sowed now. Destroy caterpillars, or what is better, prevent their attacks by distributing Soot and Brimstone about the ground under the bushes.

Remarks.—5th. Dividends on stock due.—Game certificates expire.—The returns for making the assessment of direct taxes are delivered very soon after this day. If any person wishes to give up keeping any servant or other matter assessed, he should do so on the 4th of this month, or he will be liable to another year's tax.

8th. Fire insurance due at Lady Day must be paid on or before this day, or the Policy becomes void.

Flower Garden.—Plant out Verbenas, Alonsoas, Shrubby Calceolarias, and Fuchsias, but defer Geraniums and Heliotropes till June. Shift young Geraniums into large pots for summer flowering. Camellias require a moist stove to ripen their buds, (See April.) Convolvulus major, Cobaea scandens, &c., should be forwarded in pots in the stove. Young plants of the beautiful hardy Passion flower should be planted against cottage walls.

Flower Garden.—Plant out Geraniums, Heliotropes, Dahlias, and other delicate flowering plants now without reserve. The absence of frost for three months may generally be relied upon; take advantage of this golden season to propagate and rear tender plants. Thin, regulate, stick, nail, prop, tie, and support slender shoots of ornamental plants. Cuttings of almost all kinds of Roses will now root readily if planted under a hand-glass in finely sifted garden earth, wetted to the consistency of Bricklayer's mortar.

Kitchen Garden.—Plant out Gherkins under hand-glasses. Strong plants of Tomatoes should now be turned out against a well-sheltered south wall. Sow Kidney-beans, they require about ten weeks at this season to come to perfection: never let a pod be more than half ripe, and they will continue producing such until destroyed by frost. Allow some Radishes to run to seed for their pods to be used in pickles. Earth up Celery and Cardoons.

Flower Garden.—Most plants may be increased by cuttings in July with very little trouble; put in Pink pipings, lay Carnations, propagate China Roses, double Wallflowers, double yellow and double white Rockets by cuttings under hand-glasses. Sow Annuals in every spare nook and patch, to eke out the blaze of flowers into autumn. Lines of Virginian Stock, as edgings, are admirably adapted for this purpose; its flowers are pink and white, its habit dwarf, its seeds cheap, producing a brilliant display of flowers in six weeks after sowing. Mow grass glades once every week, and sweep walks and grass where necessary every morning. Clean, and spare not.

Kitchen Garden.—Cuttings of Spear Mint, Pepper Mint, Penny Royal, Thyme, Sage, winter Savory, Hyssop, Horehound, Wormwood, Camomile, Rue, Lavender, Southernwood, Tarragon, Tansy, Costmary, and Balm, may be taken off now and will root readily in the open ground in finely sifted garden soil, wetted and worked to the consistency of bricklayers' mortar. Leeks may be transplanted now if wanted of extra size; Leeks may be grown to an enormous size treated exactly like celery. Hoe constantly, no weed, however noxious, can live if you never let the earth rest more than a week at this season.

Flower Garden.—This is the best month in the year for transplanting evergreens, and also for increasing them by cuttings. Lay Crysanthemums, harden off Camellias that were in the stove. Tie and support tall flowering plants; cut off fading flowers unless wanted for seed; attend to order and cleanliness, so that unless there be a proper place and a good reason for every article in the flower garden, let it be removed; read what is said of July, it applies here also.

Kitchen Garden.—Much that is said of July will apply here. Sow Cabbage seeds about the 12th, a principal sowing to stand over winter for spring transplanting. Sow Cauliflowers about the 20th, to be protected under frames or hand-glasses through the winter. Sow black Spanish Radishes, Endive, hardy Lettuces, Corn-salad, Chervil, Welsh and other Onions, for winter and spring use. Cut and dry herbs as they come into flower, and gather in seeds and fruits as they ripen. Make Mushroom beds, and earth up Celery.

Flower Garden.—This is the time to buy and pot Hyacinths, and other bulbs for winter forcing; Rhododendrons, Kalmias, and other plants for winter forcing need not be potted till they are wanted to go into the stove; see list of these plants for January. Hardy Heaths, Rhodoras, and many other winter and early spring flowering plants, if potted in autumn and kept in green-houses or living rooms, would produce plenty of beautiful flowers at little cost or pains for the Altar and the Oratory during the winter months.

Kitchen Garden.—Gather in Roots, Fruits, and Seeds, as they come to maturity; trust not till to-morrow, every hour of the harvest time that is serene and dry is invaluable for winter stores. This is an excellent month for transplanting. Make new plantations where necessary, of Gooseberries and Raspberries, and particularly of Strawberries. Trench ground where crops are got off, and bury waste vegetable matter, let nothing rot on the surface; digging ground at this season is a poor mockery.

Flower Garden.—Pot Chrysanthemums for winter flowering. Plant bulbs and tubers in the open border for spring and summer flowering, such as Hyacinths, Tulips, Crocuses, Snowdrops, Narcissuses, Crown Imperials, Lillies, Irises, Anemones, Ranunculuses, Hepaticas, Pœonies, Cyclomens, Christmas Rose, Dogtooth Violet, and Lily of the Valley. Transplant Roses and other deciduous shrubs and trees. Put pots of Neapolitan and other violets into heat, or put frames and glasses over them in the beds where they grow. Cinerarias and Chinese primroses should be shifted into large pots now for winter flowering. Pot Amaryllis bulbs now to flower at Easter.

Kitchen Garden.—Plant Cauliflower plants under and glasses. Sow Radishes to be covered with long litter. Sow Peas and Beans in sheltered situations. Earth up Celery so as to throw the wet off. Harvest edible roots for winter use. Gather in orchard and other fruits. Late Cauliflowers, full grown, may be preserved for months to come if taken up now and put in open sheds. See September.

Flower Garden.—Deciduous trees, shrubs, and plants, are dormant now, and may be transplanted with safety. Flower forcing begins now; put Hyacinths, and other plants, (See January,) into a gentle heat. House Dahlias for the winter, keep them free of frost only, cold and wet is their proper element. As far as is practicable renew the soil in the beds where choice flowers are to be planted.

Kitchen Garden.—New Plantations of Fruit-trees should be made now; defer not till spring, if well done now success is certain, and in spring it would be but doubtful. This is the proper season for all the heavy spade work and lugging in, such as Dung, Marl, peat soil, road scrapings, and composts for pot plants. When the leaves have fallen, they should be collected and rotted down for next year's service, as leaf-mould. Manure is the mainspring of this department, and this is decidedly the prime season to trench and manure before frosts set in.

Flower Garden.—Prevent worm-casts in grass by lime water; feed poor grass by dung water. Clean, and lightly dig dressed Shrubberies. Put in cuttings of Laurel, Privet, and other evergreens in rough Shrubberies, by millions, as cover for pheasants, and shelter for birds of song. Keep up a succession of forced flowers; put a hand-glass over patches of the Christmas Rose to have it fine, for, though its flowers are pale, and its habits lonely, it is nevertheless worthy of respect for the name it bears, and the feast it blooms to adorn.

Kitchen Garden.—The ground intended for culinary crops should be well trenched and manured before the end of the month. Vines, Peach trees, Apricot trees, Orchard trees, Gooseberry and Currant bushes should be pruned now. Stake and tie the living Raspberry canes, and cut out the dead ones. Daub the stems of Orchard trees, exposed to hares and rabbits, with a wash of clay and sulphur. Nail wall trees. Sow Cucumber and Melon seeds. Prepare dung for hot-beds; troughs of hot water make the best and cheapest hot-bed. The failures or successes observed during the year in our own or our neighbour's practice are infinitely better guides for the future than any Calendar, however complete.

RATES OF POSTAGE.

Letters from one part of Great Britain to another charged by weight as follows, if prepaid:—

Not exceeding $\frac{1}{2}$ an ounce	1 ounce,	"	2 ounces
Exceeding $\frac{1}{2}$ an ounce, and not exceeding 1 ounce	2 ounces,	"	3 ounces

And so on at the rate of 2d. for every additional ounce or fraction of an ounce.—Unpaid letters are charged double.

REGISTRATION.

BIRTHS.—Persons should cause their children to be registered within forty-two days after birth, by giving per-notice to the registrar of their district, without any fee ever. Registration may be effected after the expiration of forty-two days, and within six months, on payment of of 7s. 6d.; but after six months no birth can be registered.

DEATHS.—Intimation should be given of deaths, in same manner as births. This is of importance to be early, as the undertaker must have a certificate to give to minister who reads the funeral service, without which may refuse to bury the body.

As the cause of death is to be entered, sound discretion should be exercised in ascertaining the real nature of deceased's death, for which important purpose every fact should be given.

ELECTIONS.

Notice to receive claims for Votes must be given by Overseers on June 20th.—List of Electors must be made by June 31st.—Persons objecting to claims for Votes must give notice by Aug. 25th.—Barristers must hold their Revision Court between Sep. 15th and Oct. 25th.—Lists to be copied in books, and the books to be delivered by Oct. 31st.; and such books to be considered the Register of the Electors.

THE FOLLOWING IS OMITTED IN ITS PROPER PLACE.

Kitchen Garden for May.—Sow Cauliflower in autumn, and Broccoli for winter and spring use. Sow summer Cabbages to succeed early Potatoes, as Coleworts for autumn, thus getting two crops a year. Sow Kidney Beans and Scarlet Runners. Basil, Majoram, and other delicate pot-herbs, may now be sowed in the open ground, and the different varieties of Nasturtium may be sowed now against cottage walls. Plant out Celery and flood it with water; if native habitat is a wet ditch. Sow Gherkins in a hot-bed to be planted out under hand-glasses next month.

STANDARD MEASURES OF CAPACITY,

In all of which the Gallon is the same; which Gallon, as well for liquids as dry goods not measured by heaped measure, contains 10 lbs. Avoirdupoise of distilled water, weighed in the air at 62 degrees of Fahrenheit's Thermometer, the Barometer being at 30 inches; and is the only standard measure of capacity, from which all other measures of capacity are computed.

Till the Act of Parliament passed in 1825, we had three several gallons. The wine gallon, of 231 cubic inches, holding 8 lbs. 5 oz. $6\frac{1}{2}$ dr. of pure water; the corn gallon, of 268.8 cubic inches, holding 9 lbs. 10 oz. $1\frac{1}{2}$ dr. of water; and the ale gallon, of 282 cubic inches, holding 10 lbs. 2 oz. $1\frac{1}{2}$ dr. of water.

The imperial gallon contains $277\frac{274}{1000}$ cubic inches, and is 1-5th larger than the old wine gallon, 1-60th smaller than the beer gallon, and 1-57 larger than that used for dry goods.

Sacred Music. Dedicated to the ever blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of God. By her most unworthy suppliant, WILLIAM NUGENT SKELLY, Esq. 48 pages 4to., superfine stout paper, printed in red and black, handsome wrapper, ... 2

CONTENTS.—Ave Maria!—Salve Sancta Parens!—Litanizæ Beatæ Virginis Mariæ.—Tantum Ergo.—O Jesu, miserere nobis.—Laudate.

“The Litany of our Blessed Virgin is a truly sweet composition. This will certainly be a standard Litany in the world of sacred music. From its first note it seizes on the fast attention of the ear, and wins the heart to a love and devotion of its subject. We are certain that this collection will be invaluable to the convents.”—Dublin Weekly Register.

Progress and Influence of the Catholic Church in the United States of America; described in a Memoir of John, Bishop of New York. By Sarah Mytton Maury. Published in aid of the charitable Catholic Institutions in Liverpool. Portrait of the Bishop, demy 8vo., fine paper, handsome wrapper, 2 0

"What interests us in this Biography, is the frank and uncompromising avowal made by Mrs. Maury, of her opinions respecting religion in America. Every writer almost, on the subject, has borne testimony to the wonderful and steady progress of the Catholic Faith in that country;—but Mrs. Maury goes further: She maintains its necessity for the United States; she considers it as the only safeguard, the sole hope, the exclusive chance of salvation from ruin, for the democracy of the Union."—Dublin Review.

Roman Martyrology;

set forth by the command of Pope Gregory XIII., and revised by the authority of Pope Urban VIII. Translated out of Latin into English by G. K., of the Society of Jesus, and printed at St. Omer's by Thomas Geubels, A. D. 1667, and now re-edited, the original idiom being preserved, but the orthography being made conformable to the present time. By WILLIAM NUGENT SKELLY, Esq. With handsome portrait of Pius IX. Small 8vo., cloth gilt, 3 6

The Martyrology is usually read in the Refectories of Colleges, Convents, and Religious houses, at the end of dinner, and is generally read a day in advance, as for instance, the Martyrology of the second is read on the first day of the month, and so on.

At the end of each day's Martyrology is added by the reader, "and in other places, of many other holy Martyrs, and Confessors, and holy Virgins," to which the community respond, "Thanks be to God!"
